Feature Destination:

This month's feature destination is San Juan, Puerto Rico, a charming Caribbean port. Since San Juan is a US territory, accessibility is much better than many other islands in the Caribbean. Many of the old forts, such as Castillo San Felipe Del Moro, are almost fully wheelchair accessible. Despite these advantages, San Juan's landscape is extremely hilly with steep cobblestone streets. To learn more about accessibility on San Juan and obtain helpful links, visit our San Juan destination page.

AbilityTip of the month:

This month AbilityTrip has been active connecting to popular social networks, such as Facebook and twitter. We want to connect travelers with disabilities to the latest tips and information on accessible travel.

We encourage joining the AbilityTrip community on these social networks to stay updated on the latest travel news and to participate and share your knowledge in discussions about travel to help others.

There are many benefits ...

- Meet people with similar interest.
- Share and collectively learn from our travel experiences
- Increase your courage to travel globally

Traveler of the Month:

This month's AbilityTrip traveler of the month is Renee. She enjoys traveling with friends and family, especially to watch American Football games around the country. Renee states, "There's nothing like involving yourself in a game as a spectator with people who have a similar interest. This is my way of participating in sports."
